Laser and aesthetic device services

Different lasers treat different conditions, with ablative and non-ablative options; and different depths of the skin targeted. At Avery Aesthetics we predominantly use Sciton laser technology. We are also the only clinic in the Hunter region to offer a suite of three of the BTL Aesthetics devices, which include Radio Frequency Microneedling, non-surgical face lifting, and technologies to reduce fat and increase muscle growth in the body.

HALO™

Combining ablative and non-ablative results in one treatment.

HALO™ is a hybrid fractional resurfacing laser that can utilise two wavelengths simultaneously in its delivery, non-ablative (1470nm) and ablative (2940nm) to the same microscopic treatment zone to maximise results and minimise downtime.

Used to treat:

- Pigment
- Melasma
- Sun damage
- Visible signs of ageing
- Enlarged pores
- Overall skin quality and texture

LED LIGHT THERAPY

Multiple wavelength options for various depths in the skin addressing concerns from wound healing through to skin health.

LED or Light-emitting diode therapy was originally developed by NASA to assist with growing plants in outer space. After discovering that exposure to the lights seemed to heal abrasions on the hands of the NASA scientists faster than normal, research into the medical purposes for LED light therapy started.

Today we know that LED light therapy can address signs of ageing, reduce inflammation in the skin, help with active acne and breakouts, and boost cellular regeneration and wound healing. For improvements in skin quality the 633nm wavelength can be used to encourage circulation and collagen production. The 590nm wavelength can be used to increase skin hydration, address thickness and delivers redness reduction. The 830nm wavelength targets all skin cells from superficial to deep, including bone, assisting with healing (e.g., bruising), inflammation, suppresses the formation of hypertrophic scars, controls infection and helps with pain. LED light therapy with an 830nm wavelength can also assist with reepithelization after ablative laser resurfacing.

Used to treat:

- Signs of ageing
 - Reduce inflammation
 - Active acne and breakouts
- Cellular regeneration and wound healing
 - Rosacea

EMFACE® - FACE & DOUBLE CHIN (SUBMENTUM)

Non-invasive muscle toning, lifting of lax facial skin; and volume reduction of the double chin.

EMFACE® combines a patented combination of 2 technologies - Synchronised RF+ and HIFES™. Synchronised RF heats the dermis, increasing the levels of collagen and elastin fibres that act as supporting structures that give the skin strength and elasticity, with the goal of reducing wrinkles and lifting the skin. HIFES™ is a technology developed for facial toning using high-intensity electrical fields. It restores and elevates facial tissue support by selectively contracting muscles and increasing density and quality of muscle structure.

- Used to treat:
- Skin laxity
 - Deep static wrinkles
 - Lower face heaviness

- Facial volume
- Double chin

EMFACE® - FACE & DOUBLE CHIN (SUBMENTUM)	SINGLE TREATMENT

EMSCULPT Neo® - BODY FAT REDUCTION & MUSCLE BUILDING

Designed to eliminate fat cells and/or build muscle non-invasively.

The EMSCULPT® Neo uses a unique combination of synchronised radiofrequency (RF) heating and HIFEM+ in a single treatment, the innovative combination designed to eliminate fat cells and build muscle. EMSCULPT Neo applicators with synchronised RF electrodes are placed on the body where they emit RF heating and high intensity magnetic fields simultaneously. RF selectively heats the fat in the target area to a higher temperature (42-43°C) than the skin and muscles, which leads to breakdown of the fat (lipolysis) with residues of the cells slowly removed by the body. In addition, the HIFEM+ technology induces 20,000 muscle contractions in a single 30 minute session, at an intensity level not achievable during a voluntary workout. While fat cells are being targeted by the RF heat, the muscles are also warmed, which in combination with HIFEM+ technology, increases the hypertrophy or muscle growth, and increases muscle fibers (hyperplasia) in the target area. RF heating can be turned off for a focus on muscle fibre building without fat reduction e.g. to assist with diastasis recti.

- Used to treat:
- Fat reduction or
 - Fat reduction and muscle tone and firmness or
 - Muscle tone, firmness and strengthening including for postural or rehabilitation purposes

EXION® FACE

EXION® Face uses Radiofrequency and targeted ultrasound to boost Hyaluronic Acid (HA) production to address hydration and laxity.

EXION® is the only device available that induces Hyaluronic Acid (HA) production in the skin. HA creates volume and provides structural support, intense hydration, and plumping effects to the skin. Unfortunately, its concentration decreases as we age. Reduced HA can result in skin dehydration, volume loss, the appearance of fine lines and wrinkle; and irregular skin tone as it becomes more textured, and the formation of pigment occurs.

The EXION® is the only device currently available that combines targeted ultrasound and Radio Frequency (RF) technologies to generate the deep sub-dermal heating required to induce HA production, as well as collagen and elastin, resulting in skin tightening.

- Used to treat:
- Dehydration
 - Skin laxity
 - Facial volume loss
 - Fine lines and wrinkles
 - Irregular skin tone
 - Skin texture

DYNAMIC FACIAL LINES

Lines and wrinkles in our skin increase as the healthy elastin and collagen stores in our skin decreases.

As we age the movement from our facial expressions can leave facial lines and wrinkles in the skin. These dynamic or movement lines are caused by a combination of ageing skin (less elastin and collagen) and the skin over our facial muscles stretching when our facial muscles contract into an emotion reflective expression (e.g., excitement, worry).

Used to treat:

- Forehead
- Frown lines
- Around the eyes (laugh lines or crow's feet)
- Below the corners of our mouth

BIO-REMODELLING

Bio-Remodelling of the skin's structure over time.

Bio-Remodelling is used to address skin laxity and the overall decreasing quality of the skin that occurs with ageing. Bio-Remodelling treatments hydrate and lift the skin through the stimulation of collagen and elastin (responsible for the elasticity and firmness of the skin), and aim for structural changes in the skin over time.

Used to treat:

- Fine lines and wrinkles
- Skin dehydration
- Reduction in collagen and elastin levels

COLLAGEN STIMULATION

Encouraging collagen and elastin production while establishing structural support for the skin.

Collagen stimulators are used for concerns associated with poor skin quality including volume loss and crepey skin, which can occur with ageing. Their primary role is to improve the structure and appearance of the skin.

Used to treat:

- Reducing collagen and elastin levels
- Loss of underlying structural support
- Some collagen stimulators aim to rejuvenate the skin rather than volumise, while others volumise as well as rejuvenate through the stimulation of collagen and elastin in the skin over time

GEL TREATMENTS FOR FACIAL VOLUME

Subtle treatments for adding volume to specific areas of the face.

Gel treatments are used to add volume to areas of the face.

Used to treat:

- Creases and folds in the face
- Volume loss

GEL TREATMENTS FOR LIP VOLUME

Subtle treatments for adding volume to the lips or to certain areas of the lip(s).

Gel treatments can be used to add volume to the lips to accentuate the natural lip curve and proportions, or to address asymmetry. Additionally, as we age, collagen levels reduce and changes to our dermal structure can lead to thinning lips and wrinkles around the lips and mouth.

Used to treat:

- Volume loss
- The outline around the lips and mouth, producing a smoother texture

Australian law prevents us from advertising the details of these treatments outside of a medical consultation process. To book your consultation, contact your Avery concierge on 02 4002 4150.

REJURAN®

An alternative to medicine-based treatments, using purified wild salmon DNA to boost collagen and elastin.

REJURAN® is the newest revolutionary bio-regenerator. It is a gel formulation of polynucleotides (PN), made of wild salmon DNA fragments extracted using proprietary DNA Optimising Technology DOT™.

The fragments stimulate regeneration and repair of damaged skin while reducing unwanted inflammation. This helps to keep the treated area healthy by delivering bio-compatible PN directly into the skin, improving its overall physiological condition from the inside out.

There are currently three forms of REJURAN®.

- REJURAN® Classic - full face treatments
- REJURAN®i - targets fine lines and wrinkles, eye bags, dark circles, and lines around the eyes
- REJURAN®s - treats acne scars and older scars. Boosts skin healing and remodelling collagen, which together can treat scars

PROCELL THERAPIES MICROCHANNELING

Targeted microchannels and serums to stimulate regeneration of the skin.

Microchanneling activates your body's natural regenerative ability to tighten and lift the skin, stimulating rather than utilising destructive and inflammatory techniques. This means a treatment that is typically well tolerated and does not have downtime, while encouraging healthy skin by stimulating the rejuvenation cascade for new collagen production. Procell Therapies Microchanneling gun is used to create targeted micro-channels in the skin, without the dragging action across the skin that can damage the surface of the skin. Procell Therapies Microchannel Delivery Serums are also used in combination with Microchanneling. These highly concentrated growth factor serums encourage healing and have anti-inflammatory properties, amplifying collagen response and decreasing recovery time.

- Used to treat:
- Fine lines and wrinkles
 - Skin laxity
 - Stretch marks and scars – acne and other scars

- Pigmentation
 - Textural concerns
